Health is more than healthcare.

and we help members get the benefits they deserve. By developing a complete picture of the Social Determinants of Health (SDOH) that affect each member, and maximizing the use of benefit programs, we create positive outcomes for managed care plans and their members.

To serve today's managed care members, health plans need to understand the social context that their members live in. What are their social barriers and what are their important life experiences? And how can we work together to help members live their healthiest lives? At BeneLynk, we help managed care plans understand their members,
